For big downloads, an intermediary (zip) file is created and provided. For small files, an embedded download manager is created on download completion and the link to the file is provided. 4. Make sure there is never a clash between Installed programs. And This program version or folder version. If you encounter similar problems with other downloads, try the following things: Make sure there is no trouble with your network connection. Verify the path to the file you downloaded. It should be a direct download on the site. Verify that you have the latest version of the program. For example, if you are not using the latest version of the program, the download link may appear to be "correct". However, the download link may change automatically if you update the program. Make sure your antivirus program is up to date. If you use Windows, make sure you have installed the latest update to your antivirus program. Note that the latest version of the program may not always be the most compatible version. To be sure, always check the "Details" or "About" button, or verify the "Change Product..." button under the Product Details or About button. 7. When the file opens, go to the Options menu and check the box, "Do not ask again for this file". 8. Click, "Close" and then "Restart". There is a risk that you will need to download the file again if the download was interrupted. If this happens, repeat the steps above. Prevent any window or program from populating with the wavesznoisebundlevstfreedownload code you've just shared. The code is part of the download, so it's a breach of your privacy to have a program populate itself with it. The best way to protect yourself from this risk is to not share your download with a program. To prevent any potential spam/hijack attempts, you should never share your Download link. You can share your download only Once this link has been added to a program that downloads the code as a: When the window/program is first downloaded. IE: When you first visit the program or save the downloaded code to your hard drive. Home. For what download link is used, are you aware if it's safe? Home. Home. Home.

jquery.next and.prev working with same elements I am trying to show and hide elements with the next and previous buttons which are siblings of other elements. I have the next and previous working correctly, but after you click a specific element, all elements will hide with a class of "hidden". The code below is a little bit messy as I will be adding more code to it when the test is complete, but the function is working with one element when other than .prev or .next. `$("#test").click(function(){ $(".border").hide(); });` `$("#prev").click(function(){ $(".border").hide(); var last= $(".border.visible:last"); last.hide("fast"); $("#test").hide("fast"); });` `$("#next").click(function(){ $(".border").hide(); var last= $(".border.visible:first"); last.hide("fast"); $("#test").hide("fast"); });`

UPDATE: I found a solution to my problem, however, I still have some questions. It's probably pretty simple but I am a novice with JQuery. A: I think this will be a good example
